Maine Recycles Week 2008 is knocking at our door.

November 8 to the 15 of each year marks Maine Recycles Week.

This is a time each year when communities take time to recognize their successes with their own effort to recycle and at the same time raise public awareness toward recycling to hopefully influence better recycling and the importance of buying items made from recycled materials.

2008, is the tenth year of Maine Recycles Week.

Some classes at Waterboro Elementary School will be studying about recycling and creating artwork for the state Recycling poster contest.

We look forward to changes in our own Waterboro recycling systems in the next few months, and in the meantime ask all citizens in the town to recycle.
